Dr. Woods' commentary supports his conviction that the letter to the Hebrews was written to Jews saved under the old covenant by faith in a coming Messiah. He skillfully demonstrates that the book was written to convince these Old Testament saints to put their faith in Jesus, the Messiah who had come. Using this approach, Dr. Woods clarifies the difficult passages of Hebrews without corrupting the text or manipulating it to conform to one's theological bent. In particular, the passages that are sometimes used to support the possibility of losing one's salvation are carefully examined and their meanings precisely clarified. This book presents new and biblically accurate insights into the overall argument of the letter to the Hebrews that need to be understood by the evangelical community. - Publisher.

Did Jesus claim to be the long-awaited "messiah"? Going against much contemporary scholarship, Australian scholar Michael Bird argues that he did. He begins by exploring the messianic expectations in the Old Testament and Second Temple Jewish literature. Next, Bird points out weaknesses in current arguments that "Messiah," or "Christ," was a title given to Jesus by the early church but not used by Jesus himself. Bird then examines the Gospels and related literature, finding in Jesus's words and actions evidence that he saw himself as the messiah described in the Scriptures of Israel and believed that Israel's restoration hinged on the outcome of his ministry.

The beginning of this book starts with John the Baptist asking a Question in Matthew 11:3-5, "...art thou he that should come, or do we look for another?" When John the Baptist asked this question he was in prison hearing news about Jesus and his fame throughout the region. From then until now people all over the world are looking for and expecting great light from church leadership, just like the people described in Capernaum. Scripture notes that these people of Zabulon and Naphthalim were sitting in darkness when they saw a great light. Great leaders always stand out and are easily identified. This book details seven qualifying criteria for leadership and the central thought is based on John's question. It is important that people know their leaders are sanctioned by God. Our Lord Jesus has set the example, therefore we ask... "Are you the one or should we look for another?"
