The Caring Congregation: Training Manual and Resource ...

This course, Chaplaincy Care Volunteer Training, is designed for persons who wish to volunteer their time to a chaplaincy department as a visitor to patients and families within health care settings. It is intended to support the training provided by individual departments, led by a chaplaincy supervisor.

This manual is designed to equip the raising and releasing of pastoral ministry in the local church. It is a comprehensive training resource for those who have a strong focus on providing pastoral support (such as Pastors or members of a pastoral team), or those who simply want to explore whether a caring ministry is for them. It is also very relevant to anyone who has a pastoral aspect to their ministry, for example: Small group leaders Team leaders who have a pastoral remit for people on their teams Any Christian who naturally cares for others, without having an 'official' ministry role in a local church. This training can be used for personal or group study. It covers lessons on: The importance of pastoral ministry The role of Pastors and a pastoral team Skills needed to provide effective pastoral care Pointers on how to support people with specific issues such as grief, marriage problems, mental health, etc.

This work provides chaplains/directors of spiritual/pastoral care with a template for the setup, implementation, and maintenance of a comprehensive, all-volunteer program for the integration of canine companions into the spiritual/pastoral care of patients/residents in healthcare facilities. Based on a qualitative research study conducted over a nine-month period, this self-directed manual introduces a program that is preliminarily " road-tested, " safe, effective, and repeatable. As the author continues to be involved in the Four-Footed Ministers Pastoral-Care Program, new insights and observations will be available to enhance and improve the original publication.

Looking into cyberspace to see if anything in dog ministry had been attempted since 2005, the author discovered that there still remained a void in the literature and in practice regarding an over-arching program integrating dogs into ministry in healthcare settings. Though research has demonstrated possible spiritual benefits from elder-dog interactions, a programmatic, comprehensive ministry with dogs rather than to them remains relatively unexplored. However, what is needed is a formal program for dog ministry. A comprehensive program would enable chaplains to set up, launch, and maintain a "road-tested" safe, effective, and repeatable program. A training manual on such a program will be a valuable resource for chaplains, and the print-based artifact included in the appendix defines such a program. Section Two examines many of the other solutions possible to the problem of ministry with dogs rather than to them. Section Three describes the comprehensive program defined in the appendix that will enable healthcare facilities to risk implementing the use of dogs in ministry. Finally, Section Four will briefly discuss the qualitative research study undertaken to define the Four-Footed Ministers Pastoral-Care Program. Though there are many ministers and volunteers use their dogs in visiting patients/residents, the artifact formalizes and systematizes a comprehensive program for dog ministry ensuring that volunteers and professional teams have effective and consistent guidelines. Building on elders' strong attachment to pet(s), the training manual functions as a template for chaplains to enable them to design their own Four-Footed Ministers Pastoral Care Program. Our ultimate goal is stimulation of further research into dog ministry, a concept that is in its infancy. Those involved in this project hope that others will join them on the quest to provide better spiritual/pastoral care, enjoying the company of both two-legged and four-legged travelers on the road to God.
