Written entirely in Paris over a two year span during which its author lived every conceivable metropolitan passion and inspiration, Rooftop Soliloquy is a novel as vibrant and alive as the city where it was given seed and a place to grow. The first-person narrative follows the adventures and misadventures of a mysterious individual: an artist, fl neur, composer of operas, and incorrigible rake, who wanders the districts of Paris seducing girls, drinking wine, and looking for that new idea with which to complete his 'hero's tale.' Rooftop Soliloquy is remarkable for the ease and pleasurable pace of the story. The reader is led on a joyful path that wanders from the urban picaresque tale, to the pastoral courtly or chivalric romance, to the Homeric-style epic. A feast of sensuality, Payne's third epic novel narrates the story of the beautiful young Nadja, and her brooding lover Nikolai, as the two come of age in a springtime garden. When their world of earthly delights fades with the dying season, the two are exiled from their pastoral romance into a fiery world of seedy urban haunts, intoxicated dreams and electric lights. When tragedy heralds the birth of a new day, light is shed on everyone's fate as the greatest adventure of all begins: a cunning swindler sets off on a heroic voyage to find the love of his youth. Through tears of hope and despair, the landscape of this novel unfolds before us in a vast panorama of poetic prose, delighting the senses and the imagination about what is possible, what is beautiful, and what is maddening about this world. ""Charged with passion, these pages sing to us their erotic melancholy; 'Hope and Despair' is both loving and frightening, a pleasure to read once and again!""

"Crepuscule is a poetic panorama of life among the Parisians and the expatriates in the French capital. An intense drama flowing with passion, Crepuscule is the epic story of romance, love, freedom, and survival where the reader is taken on an expedition to the heights of hope and the depths of despair." -- From publisher's website.

"She was free in her wildness. She was a wanderess, a drop of free water. She belonged to no man and to no city."Roman Payne (b. 1977), the author of "The Wanderess," is an international novelist, poet, and adventurer who immigrated to France in 1999, and now lives in Morocco.Payne is known for his poetic language, the incredible sensuality of his prose, his archetype of the "Wandering Dreamer," and his return to classicism (what he terms "heroic prose").Although Payne writes in English, his 15 years living in Paris has greatly influenced his work, giving it a unique Latinate quality and inimitable voice. Payne's literary quotes have inspired the lives and works of many famous artists, from pop-singers to world leaders. Their themes are: travel, devoting one's life to wandering, love and sexuality, femininity and women's empowerment, and the rise of the individual to live the "Heroic Life." He is heavily influenced by Homeric Epic and French classical literature.Payne achieved financial and critical literary success in 2013 with the publication of his cult-classic novel, "The Wanderess." It took Payne five years to write "The Wanderess," whereas his other four novels each took one year to complete. "The Wanderess" is arguably his best novel and a masterpiece of literary fiction.In 2016, Roman Payne left his beloved Europe for Africa and he now lives solely off his writing in the Arabic Muslim city of Marrakech, Morocco.

"'Cities & Countries' is a book about travel, about searching and wandering, about finding greatness in the midst of the world." Strange adventures meet Alexis when he wanders far from his familiar home in a quest to become a man of the world. What begins as a search for the "Great City," leads to a wayward and whimsical, romantically poignant, and at times powerfully despairing, jaunt through various cities and countries, far and wide. Along the way, he meets soldiers and hunchbacks, criminals and revolutionaries, madmen and fishermen, goatherds and opium smokers, charlatans, fanatical holy men and beautiful noblemen's daughters. He encounters glory, suffers poverty and loss. Friends and lovers come and go, while youth gives way to wisdom and experience. Payne speaks to us in his unique timeless tone, mixing mythology, realism and allegory to create a stage for an extraordinary drama that blends comedy, tragedy, gritty prose and magical poetry in an exploration of joy and sorrow, hope and despair.

The poem begins in an ancient garden in the midnight city, where a nocturnal recollection of the past begins an epic voyage traversing centuries of ideas and continents of profound imagery. The Basement Trains, Payne's greatest long poem, written when he was 28 years old, conjures up a wealth of poetic legacies: from Dante's visit to the underworld, to TS Eliot's Mind of Europe. Here, one sees William Blake, Milton, the Catholic Bible, Greek and Roman myth, Russian folklore; and, beyond this, one hears the voice of Roman Payne in its purest poetic form. This bilingual first-edition contains the superb translation into French by Aur lien Galateau. This edition is illustrated with photographic plates by the author. Published by ModeRoom Press, 2006 – Paris, France.
